“A moving reminder that the consequences of the Chinese invasion of Tibet continue down to this day. A lovely memoir of three generations of Tibetan women.” --Oliver Stone

“Yangzom Brauen recounts a gripping true story of her family and has kept alive the dreams of her grandmother.” --Kehdroob Thondup, co-author of Dalai Lama, My Son

ISBN: 0312600135/ Retail: $26.99

In rescuing the story of her now 90-year-old inspirational grandmother and her mother, Yangzom Brauen has given us an extraordinary portrait of three generations of Tibetan women—grandmother, mother, and granddaughter—whose lives are forever changed when Chairman Mao’s Red Army crushes Tibetan independence, sending a young mother and her six-year-old daughter on a treacherous journey toward freedom.

This is a book full of love, courage, and triumph, as well as a rare and vivid glimpse of life in rural Tibet before the arrival of the Chinese.
